INSTRUCTIONS TO THE EMPANELED JUROR

In re: The People v. Herold, et al. — Violations of the Electoral Confidence Preservation Act

Instruction 1 — Burden of Proof. The prosecution bears the burden of proving each element of each offense beyond a reasonable doubt. If, after careful consideration of all the evidence, you are not convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant is guilty, you must return a verdict of not guilty.

Instruction 2 — The Charges. The defendants are charged with Electoral Confidence Destabilization under ECPA § 3. To find a defendant guilty you must find that the defendant: (a) engage in Mass Dissemination; (b) knowingly published Electoral Integrity Claims; and (c) such claims constituted Material Destabilization as defined in ECPA § 2.

Instruction 3 — Credibility of Evidence. You are the sole judges of the credibility of all evidence. You may believe all, part, or none of any testimony or exhibit. In evaluating exhibits you may consider the platform, context, engagement metrics, and whether the statement was made while wearing an orange hunting cap.

Instruction 4 — The Enterprise. The existence of the Badlands Media enterprise and each defendant's role within it are elements the prosecution must prove. Association with a media enterprise is not, in itself, unlawful — it is the coordinated nature of the dissemination that elevates individual acts into enhanced violations under § 4.

Instruction 5 — Deliberation. You must deliberate as a body and attempt to reach a unanimous verdict on each count. Each count is independent; you may find differently on different counts. If you cannot reach a unanimous verdict, notify the Tribunal. The Tribunal will be disappointed.

THE JUROR'S OATH

"I do solemnly affirm that I will well and truly try, and a true deliverance make, between The People and the defendants at the bar, and render a true verdict according to the law and the evidence."

A warning. A juror who substitutes private judgment for the law has not exercised independence — he has abdicated his sworn duty. These proceedings are observed. Confidence is not optional. Your duty is clear, and so are the consequences of forsaking it.
